Dazzled with blood, beside her lay."

Lady of the Lake.

E. Leutze's Drawings.

The following are a few fine specimens of this Artist's pictures, so seldom now seen in this country. They illustrate one of our finest Poets, W. C. Bryant.

10 "OH! FAIREST OF THE RURAL MAIDS," by LEUTZE

Were ever in the sylvan wild;
And all the beauty of the place,
Is in thy heart and on thy face."

BRYANT.

11 THE GREEK AMAZON, and original Drawing, by LEUTZE

"I buckle to my slender side
The pistol and the scimitar,
And in my native flower and pride
Am come to share the tasks of war."

BRYANT.

"They go to the slaughter,
To strike the sudden blow,
And pour on earth, like water,
The best blood of the foe."

BRYANT.

The ocean murmuring nigh,
She throws the hook, and watches,
The fishes pass it by." BRYANT.

14 WILLIAM TELL, original drawing by E. LEUTZE

"Chains may subdue the feeble spirit, but thee,
Tell, of the iron heart! they could not tame!
For thou wert of the mountains, they proclaim
The everlasting creed of liberty."

Bryant

15 THE HURRICANE, original drawing by E. LEUTZE

"Lord of the winds! I feel the nigh,
I know thy breath is the burning sky!
And I wait, with a thrill in every vein,
For the coming of the hurricane!"

Bryant.

16 LEGEND OF THE MONUMENT MOUNTAIN, an original drawing by E. LEUTZE

"It was a summer morning, and they went
To this old precipice. About the cliffs
Lay garlands, ears of maize, and shaggy skins!"

Bryant

17 AN INDIAN AT THE BURIAL PLACE OF HIS FATHERS, an original drawing by E. LEUTZE

"Ah, little thought the strong and brave
Who bore their lifeless chieftain forth—
Or the young wife, that weeping gave
Her first born to the earth,
That the pale race, who waste us now,
Among their bones should guide the plough."

Bryant

18 RIZPAH, an original drawing by LEUTZE

"I have wept till I could not weep, and the pain
Of my burning eyeballs went to my brain.
Seven blackened corpses before me lie,
In the blaze of the sun and the winds of the sky.
And I threw the lighted brand to fright
The jackal and wolf that yelled in the sight."

Bryant

19 THE MASSACRE AT SCIO, an original drawing by LEUTZE

"Weep not for Scio's children slain;
Their blood, by Turkish falchions shed,
Sends not its cry to Heaven in vain
For vengeance on the murderer's head."

BRYANT

20 THE COUNT OF GRIERS, an original drawing by LEUTZE

"He hears a sound of minstrels, and suddenly appear
A troop of ruddy damsels and herdsmen drawing near;
They reach the Castle greensward, and gaily dance across
The white sleeves flit and glimmer, the wreathes
and ribbons toss."

BRYANT

Our leader frank and bold;
The British soldiers trembles
When Marion's name is told."

BRYANT.

22 LEGEND OF THE CATSKILLS, original drawing by LEUTZE

"Thine shadows swim in the faint moonshine,
And take a ghastly likeness of men,
As if the slain by the wintry storms
Came forth to the air in their earthly forms."

BRYANT.

23 EGYPTIAN HEROES—THE AGES, original drawing by LEUTZE

What is there!
A boundless sea of blood, and the wild air
Mourns with the crimson surges that entomb
Cities and bannered armies; forms that wear
The kingly circlet rise, amid the gloom
O'er the dark wave, and straight are swallowed in its tomb.

Bryant
